

Dear Broker,

The world of Sport, Leisure, and Entertainment has never been more exciting or more challenging. The range of activities both professional and amateur and the number of people participating or watching is unprecedented. Standards are being set higher and higher, the risks are greater and the battle to achieve supremacy is more intense than anyone could imagine 50 years ago when SLE Worldwide Limited started insuring Motor Sports in the US.

At the same time, society has become more litigious. Whether you see this as compensation culture gone mad or just the consumer finally exercising their human rights to redress, there is no doubting that we in Europe are following the US trend. Court attitudes to claims have moved sharply in favour of the plaintiff and the level of awards reflects society's growing belief that not only must someone be to blame but they must also pay when things go wrong. That is why your clients need an industry specialist to provide their insurance, a company as committed as they are to the world of Sport, Leisure, and Entertainment.

SLE Worldwide has a unique perspective on your market - our focus is purely on Sport, Leisure, and Entertainment. We set out to meet the needs of the participants, organisers, promoters, sponsors and visiting public by providing as many different types of cover as is necessary to protect their interests.

We live in an age where sporting heroes rank alongside business leaders, presidents and prime ministers for influence and prestige. They demand the very best and we aim to give it to them. Our policies are tailored not just to the risks of their profession but also to their attitude towards risk and their lifestyle.

In such a high-risk market place, we believe you won't find another provider able to offer the same consistent and comprehensive level of support and risk management advice and specialist industry knowledge. We look forward to working with you to protect the interests of your clients.

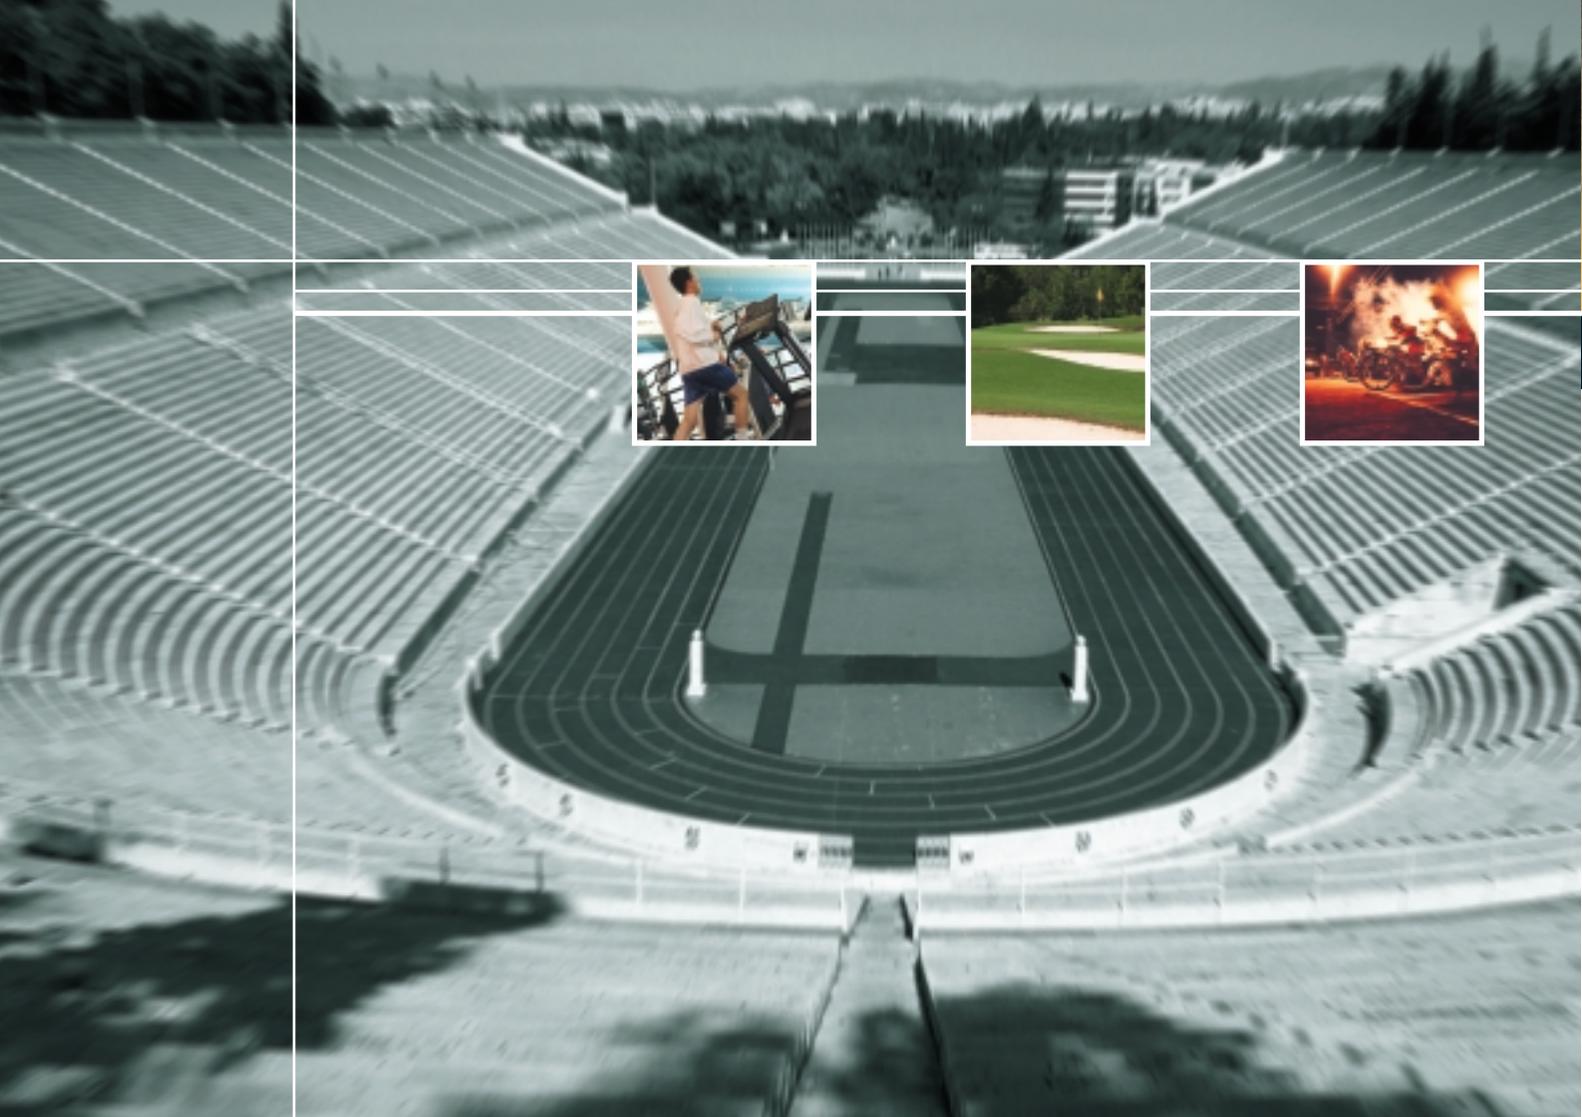

Yours faithfully

Roger Bickmore

SLE Worldwide: Property & Liability

Our industry specialisation offers valuable benefits to insurance intermediaries and their clients. Your clients can be sure of getting the most appropriate cover because we work with you to develop a more precise understanding of their risks.

Where appropriate, we will write combined packages. However, we are able to write Property and Liability separately if the result is a better insurance solution for your clients. We can provide a variety of covers including:

Employers' Liability (compulsory in the UK)

- We can help your clients meet and exceed their obligations, under the Employers' Liability (Compulsory Insurance) Act 1969 and the Employers' Liability 1998 Regulations, to have adequate insurance.

Public Liability

- This is not a legal requirement. However, legal action may be taken against companies by third parties. We therefore strongly advise clients to ensure they have sufficient cover, and can provide highly competitive levels.

Products Liability

- We offer this in conjunction with our Public Liability and generally only provide indemnity for food and drink supplied by your client or other incidental products, such as souvenirs and memorabilia.

Property

- To protect your clients' assets and profits we can provide comprehensive Property & Business Interruption cover, tailored to each client's specific needs including loss of or damage by hazards such as fire, storm and theft.

Your clients can be sure of getting the most appropriate cover because we work with you to develop a more precise understanding of their risks.
